

Sigrid Miller Pollin
1290 South East St
Amherst, MA 01002
smillerp@art.umass.edu
www.millerpollin.com

Architect, Artist, Professor Architecture + Design Program at UMass
B.A. Art History, Vassar College, 1971
Master of Architecture, Columbia University, 1975

Sigrid Miller Pollin FAIA is the principal of Miller Pollin Architecture, an art and architecture studio based in Amherst, Massachusetts. She is also a professor of architecture in the Department of Art, Architecture and Art History at The University of Massachusetts Amherst. Her award-winning design work has been recognized nationally and internationally in numerous publications. In her work Sigrid Miller Pollin draws inspiration from a variety of sources including the natural landscape and contemporary ecological movements to support a sustainable environment. In 2010 Miller Pollin was honored with giving the UMass Amherst Distinguished Faculty Lecture "Curves: A Visual Essay" and received a Chancellor's Award for Outstanding Creative Activity.

Her recent art exhibits include:

2012 Field Notes 2, Porter Phelps Huntington Museum, Hadley, Massachusetts
(with Jane Thurber, Stephen Schreiber)

2011 Field Notes, Herter Gallery, UMass Amherst
(with Jane Thurber, Stephen Schreiber)

2010 Four Projects exhibited at Greening of the Valley Exhibit University Gallery UMass

2010 Invited Presentation of Work by Miller Pollin Chancellor's Salon UMass Amherst

2008 Solo Exhibit Herter Gallery UMass Amherst